

GNTV Blog Number 1 – 2nd April 2017

“ANOTHER STEP FORWARD”

Praise the Lord is the regular form of greetings that I and others from a Pentecostal or Apostolic tradition make before communicating. This form of greeting is particularly apposite for the steps we have taken as an internet broadcaster is truly the Lord's doing. To be clear, we took the step but it was the Lord that made us believe we could and He was there to ensure we did not fall.

This is the first blog written to coincide with the launch of the new website which we hope you will enjoy. There are a number of important features which will be utilised to advance the viewing experience.

The internet is, I believe, a great modern invention which has connected the world like nothing else before. What's remarkable is that it is not owned by any one person or country. Billions of pounds are made by some very clever people but to the ordinary citizen of the world it's free which is why I believe if used properly can be a force for good especially for the poor of our world. Unlike satellite, cable and even terrestrial TV it's free to the recipient. Through GNTV I and the team will be playing our part in delivering the Great Commission, to go into all the world with the gospel.

I am a traveller and will continue to travel to plant churches, strengthen churches, help the poor, help children and help leaders and communities around the world.

This help will take different forms from: preaching, teaching, feeding, housing and praying. Through the wonder of internet broadcasting I am intending to do even more.

Today marks a very important next step on a journey that began less than 7 years ago when I and Dennis Riley (Don 1), met for the first time. Over the ensuing years we have got to know each other and he has become a good friend and business partner.

That first step was his offer for me to do a live weekly gospel show which was a mix of teaching and gospel music. A lot has happened since then the station went on to develop a gospel network which broadcast from within the Tropical FM TV website.

Today, GNTV broadcasts from its own new website yet it remains part of the Tropical FM TV network.

One important aspect of the new GNTV station is the homepage serves as the entry point to the station. It's like turning on the TV.

If you are a Christian, please pray for me and the team as we go forward, step by step. If you are a church and are interested in airing your church service or doing a series of teachings then please get in touch with me and the station. You can also advertise on GNTV.

God bless you and do keep on watching and do let others know about GNTV.

The Lord's servant
